

DEMOCRATIC PRIMARY.

John Gibbons Defeats R. F. Mastin For Chief of Police While W. T. Fitzpatrick, Jr., Wins in Assessor's Race.

The Democratic primary held in this city last Friday to nominate a candidate for Chief of Police, Assessor and members of the Council in the second and fourth wards passed off quietly, although there was a great deal of interest manifested.

In the race for Chief of Police John Gibbons was the winner, receiving 323 votes to 241 for R. F. Mastin. W. T. Fitzpatrick, Jr., won the nomination for Assessor, receiving 243 votes to 192 for G. C. Reid and 117 for R. S. Stokley.

In the race for Councilmen in the second ward, J. Will Clay received 142 votes, H. G. Enoch 127 and Wells Wilkerson 95, the first two named being the nominees. In the fourth ward, W. R. McKee received 95 votes, C. B. 90 and Ewing Flynn 27, the first two named being nominated.

All of the candidates are capable, competent, honorable and efficient gentlemen and will undoubtedly make the public worthy servants after their election in November, which seems assured.

SPLENDID SPEECH

Delivered by Edward J. McDermott, Democratic Candidate for Lieutenant Governor.

Edward J. McDermott, the Democratic candidate for Lieutenant Governor of Kentucky, made a splendid speech in the interest of the Democratic State ticket at the Courthouse here last Tuesday. Mr. McDermott was met at the train in an automobile by Campaign Chairman, W. B. White and a number of prominent Democrats who escorted him to the Courthouse where a large crowd was present. He made a strong appeal to the people to keep up the good work started, assuring them that with the Democratic harmony that was prevailing all over the state that our ticket would win by a handsome majority. Mr. McDermott is a most entertaining speaker and his remarks received the careful attention of all present. Our county is well organized and the Chairmen of the various districts report everything in first class condition and it is predicted that Montgomery county will give its old time Democratic majority.

Wins Second Money.

Mainleaf, the game little three-year-old trotter owned by Jas. R. Magowan, of this county, after winning two heats in the rich Kentucky Futurity at Lexington last week, was beaten by Peter Thompson, owned by Pennsylvania parties.

Mainleaf won the first two heats and would have won the third, but for a punctured tire, the race was postponed until the following day and was won in straight heats by Peter Thompson. Mainleaf trotted under great difficulties, having a badly cracked quarter, which made him very lame, and it was the opinion of the majority of horsemen present that had he been sound he would have won in a jog, as it was he put up a far better race than most horses would have done under similar circumstances. Mr. Magowan had a world of friends on the grounds who regretted to see his colt defeated. The six heats were the fastest 6 heat race ever trotted by three-year-olds.

State Board of Pharmacy in Session Here.

The State Board of Pharmacy is in session here and a number of applicants are being examined for license as druggists.

The Board has its headquarters in the County Court room, where the examinations are being conducted. Mr. R. H. White, of this city, is a member of the Board, and being quite popular with the other members, secured the meeting for Mt. Sterling.

One of the first questions asked each applicant was: "What four standard preparations are made from sheep?" Upon reading it, one applicant jocularly remarked: "There's where you take my goat."

A JOYOUS GROUP

With Feasting, Flowers and Music.

A picnic for the Bible School of the Christian church had been announced for Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the fair grounds. On account of heavy rain during the forenoon, plans had to be changed. To abandon the entertainment meant disappointment to many. Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Trimble, teachers in the school, gladly opened their spacious home for the old and young. Owing to the limited time for notification of changed plans, and to inclement weather, the attendance was small, only about 80 being present. The lunch consisted of sandwiches, pickle, lemonade, cakes, bananas and apples. There was an abundance and to spare, provided by generous and willing men and women of the congregation. The table was decorated with such as the season and community affords: Flowers, many candles, (the electric current is available at night), and happy, bright-faced children. The music was captivating, an improvised chorus of 80 voices. The table accommodated 30 at a time, the adults, (about 20), being served last. Mrs. A. B. Oldham was a center of attraction, as many little ones seated on the floor eagerly listened to her stories. The host and hostess were honored and delighted to have such an assembly as their guests, and will remember this as a bright spot in their lives.

Death of Mr. Fred Rushford.

Mr. Fred Rushford, of this county, died at a sanatorium in Lexington October 6, 1911, and was brought to this city Saturday and buried in the Machpelah cemetery Sunday morning, services conducted by Rev. W. F. Wyatt. Mr. Rushford came to this city from England and had made his home on the Grassy Lick pike, in this county, for a long number of years. He was a man with many friends and will be sadly missed. He is survived by several children, their names we failed to learn.

The Government authorities have changed the time of the departure of the mail from the city on Rural Route No. 2 from 10 a. m. to 1 p. m., so that the patrons will be enabled to get the mail off of the 12:37 train. This makes the carrier get back to the office at 6 p. m., instead of 3 p. m., as formerly and if the Government makes the change a permanent one the carrier will be forced to deliver mail in the dark. The change is popular with some of the patrons, while objectionable to others.

GEORGIA MARBLE

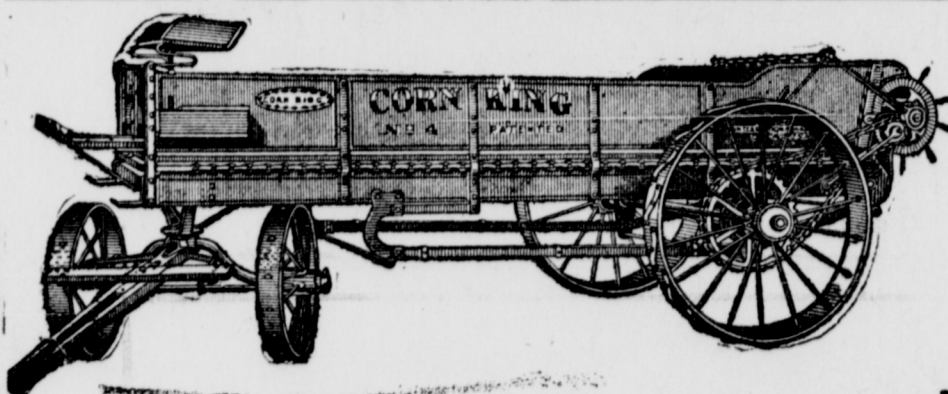

If it's a monument you are going to erect, it should be of GEORGIA MARBLE; if it's a vault, GEORGIA MARBLE is the proper material; if it's a building, GEORGIA MARBLE should be used for both exterior and interior. Because it will not absorb moisture, which prevents decomposition; it with stands heat to 1,000 degrees Fah.; you can get any size, shape or shade desired; it will remain beautiful and unbroken as long as it lasts — and it lasts for ever.

In selecting a monument, it is with the idea of perpetuating the memory of some loved one—but it is not a perpetual monument that soon cracks and crumbles away. Avoid this by asking your dealer to show you samples of "Cherokee," "Creole," "Etowah" and "Kennesaw" Georgia Marble for monuments.

Hog Cholera Serum.

The Kentucky Experiment Station is sending out a timely circular in relation to hog cholera serum. The disease is prevalent in some parts of the State and the losses every year because of its inroads are heavy.

Some years ago the United States Bureau of Animal Industry began experimenting in the effort to discover a vaccination process for the prevention of swine cholera. Improvements have been made in the treatment at intervals and the claim is now made for it that it is generally efficacious. The last Kentucky Legislature made an appropriation of $2,000 to erect a laboratory and building at the Experiment Station at Lexington for the manufacture of the serum. While the work is not being carried on extensively because of the smallness of the fund appropriated, the station has begun the manufacture of the article and, according to the circular, "has prepared upwards of 6,000 doses." The serum is tested before being sent out from the laboratory and is sold at the cost of production. Whenever a request is made the Experiment Station will, if possible, send experienced men to vaccinate hogs, and there will be no charge of this service. Experience, it is stated, is required to administer the serum properly.

The Experiment Station circular gives some material facts as to dosage and as to methods of applying the treatment. Owners of swine herds who have to deal with the cholera problem will serve their own interests by taking advantage of the assistance which is offered by the Experiment Station. The frequent outbreaks of cholera are the most serious trouble with which the hog raiser has to contend. The disease has caused heavy losses to farmers from time immemorial and has constituted a perpetual menace to the swine industry. There seems to be no doubt that the serum treatment supplies the best known method of handling the disease. It has been widely tested at the various experiment stations and on the farms. Heretofore it has not been easily accessible to Kentucky farmers and its manufacture at the State Experiment Station will be a substantial benefit.

Automobiles and Highways.

Mr. Linthicum, of Maryland, introduced in the last Congress a bill to establish a Federal Highways Commission which should urge cooperation and joint action between the States and the Federal Government in constructing highways and regulating automobile travel. Unmistakably the present situation is unsatisfactory. The automobile is largely an interstate performer. A State which has comparatively few automobiles itself may have to keep up roads which are being battered to pieces by the automobiles of neighboring States. New Hampshire is an instance. The State is poor, its soil is such that roads are expensive to maintain, and the number of foreign automobiles engaged in knocking these roads to pieces is large. Some localities meet this unfair predicament by exacting tolls, which is perhaps reasonable as a temporary device. Undoubtedly, however, this is one of the matters in which closer cooperation is desirable. Mr. Linthicum's bill contains an idea which ought to bear fruit.

NO REASON FOR IT

There can be no just reason why any reader of this will continue to suffer the torture of an aching back, the annoyance of urinary disorders, the dangers of kidney ills when relief is so near at hand and the most positive proof given that they can be cured. Read what a Mt. Sterling citizen says:

Mrs. J. P. Nelson, 34 Richmond Ave., Mt. Sterling, Ky., says: "I can give Doan's Kidney Pills my highest endorsement. They have proven of great benefit to me and I believe that if I had not used them I would be in poor health today. My back drove me almost frantic, as it ached almost constantly and I always felt tired and worn out. The least thing worried me and I also suffered from nervous headaches. Since using Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at F. C. Duerson's drug store, I feel like a different woman. I take them whenever I have the least recurrence of kidney trouble and they never fail to give me prompt relief."

What is Purity?

The extent to which our National and State Governments will ultimately go in protecting the consumer can not be foretold, but it can safely be said that for a long time we shall be moving however slowly, in the direction of more protection. First must come protection to health. The decision of the Supreme Court on the patent-medicine clause in the Pure Food Law makes it necessary to amend that law next winter. After health comes the question of forbidding branding which is intended to give an impression of a more expensive or desirable ingredient than is actually contained. As an example of this may be given the fact that certain companies which sell compounds containing a large amount of borax naturally feel aggrieved about those which, with practically no borax, call their products by some name indicating that they are boric. The manufacturers of actual borax is contained. Doubtless we shall come some time to a condition of the public mind in which no fraudulent claim is permitted about ingredients whether or not the product is injurious to health.

Why are Wagons Painted?

A cheap wagon is painted to hide defects in the wood and make it look attractive to the purchaser.

Even the paint is of poor quality and wears off quickly, leaving the wood exposed to the weather.

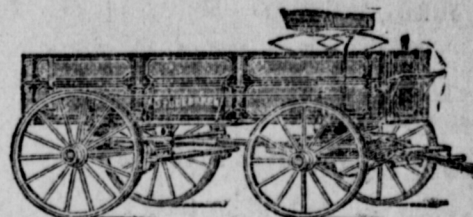

A Studebaker is painted to preserve the wood and protect it from the elements.

Even when the boxing is forced into the hub, it is covered with pure lead in order to keep moisture out of the hub.

You cannot see that, but it's there just the same.

The paint used on a

is chosen for its wear and weather resisting qualities.

It may not look much different from the "cheap" wagon when new, but—

Write for the book, "The Farmers' Friend," which shows just how the Studebaker is made.

O'Rear Approves Raise in Taxes.

One of the most flagrant violations of campaign pledges was the raid upon the taxpayers organized by Governor Willson to cover up his extravagance, and carried into effect under his orders, by his Board of Equalization. Having wasted more than one quarter of a million dollars of the people's money in foolishly exploiting the State militia, he paid the piper by increasing the taxable value of farm lands in two years, $92,029,431.00. The burden, as usual, fell upon the farmers, the very people to whom Judge O'Rear is now appealing for help, although Governor Willson's administration which was responsible for this increase, meets with Judge O'Rear's hearty commendation.

Governor McCreary asked Judge O'Rear the direct question, if he approved this raise of nearly one hundred million dollars on the farm lands of the State, and it must be said to Judge O'Rear's credit, that he was frank enough to admit that he did approve of it. He said that his political advisers had told him that it would be a dangerous thing to endorse, but that he thought it was lawful, and that he believed the Republican officials acted honestly under their oath of office.

It logically follows that if Judge O'Rear is elected Governor, and runs the State in debt, as all his Republican predecessors have done, he will follow Governor Willson's method of emptying the pockets of the farmers, because his Board of Equalization has the authority under the law to put any burden on them that is necessary to support the extravagances of the administration.

The Ex-Confederates for Governor or McCreary.

When Augustus E. Willson ran for Governor, he made a great parade of the fact that some of the Confederate soldiers were for him, and he never tired of telling how grateful he was to these brave defenders of the lost cause for their support. There were some few Confederates, who, for personal reasons, voted for Willson, but they have lived to regret it, as has every other Democrat who trusted in Republican promises or pledges.

At the last session of the Legislature, a bill was passed to erect a monument to Jefferson Davis, who was born in Kentucky, and who has won immortality as President of the Confederacy. Although the Democrats at the session before had voted $2,500.00 for the erection of a monument to Abraham Lincoln, because he too was a Kentuckian; Governor Willson, forgetting the Confederates had been for him, vetoed their measure, and threw it back in the faces of its supporters.

Governor McCreary is not running for office on his record as a Confederate soldier, but he served during the war under the stars and bars, and thousands of his old comrades attest his courage and fidelity. Even if he did not have a claim that a brother in arms always has, they would still support him, because they remember the treachery of Governor Willson, and they have learned that the promises of Republican politicians are made only to be broken.

Some folks rise up early and go hunting trouble, only to climb a tree when they find him.

Another Lemon Drawn.

Mrs. Nepoleone, the best dressed woman at Newport during the past summer, is asking for an absolute divorce from her Parisian husband, whom she married five years ago. She is an American. "My divorce," she said, "will add a chapter to the long story of unfortunate marriages between American girls and foreigners, all of them hinging on the money of the American girls. That is all the foreigners care for; a fact which their American wives find out all too soon. I would advise American girls to marry men of their own country, since they are kinder, more faithful, more considerate, and more worthy in every way." The advice is as sound as a new gold dollar, but are the girls going to take it? Won't they go right along buying titles and getting themselves snubbed, just as they have been doing for a long time?

FRIDAY'S PRIMARY.

The result of Friday's Primary, so far as the candidates for Councilmen were concerned, demonstrates conclusively, in our judgment, that the people of Mt. Sterling are in favor of brick streets, sewers and everything else progressive and up-to-date for which the present administration has so unceasingly labored.

Public officials, who undertake, in good faith, to do something, are always subjected to criticism by the muckraker and demagogue and in this respect, the present Mayor and City Council, have not been exceptions to the rule. The returns, must therefore, be quite gratifying to them.

All of the winners, says Mr. Stephens, are now Councilmen and he is in hearty sympathy with the efforts that are being made to improve our city in every possible way.

The nominee for Chief of Police, Mr. John Gibbons, is well known to our readers and we have no hesitancy in vouching for him. That he will make an admirable Chief, all agree. The same is true of Mr. W. T. Fitzpatrick, Jr., the winner of the nomination for City Assessor and of Messrs. W. C. Hamilton and H. M. Ringo, both of whom were nominated for City Attorney and City Clerk, respectively, without opposition.

We are confident this splendid ticket will be unopposed in November, but should this prove incorrect, our confidence in the intelligence of the electorate of Mt. Sterling, causes us to feel assured that these gentlemen will be elected by a handsome majority.

Don't delay payment of your brick street assessment too long. Remember if you do not pay it by October 20th, you can then only pay it in ten annual payments, with interest, secured by first mortgage lien on the property.

Will Judge O'Rear Answer These Questions.

Ollie James continues to ask Judge O'Rear embarrassing questions. He quotes from a stenographic report printed in the Lexington Leader, a strong Republican newspaper, Judge O'Rear's charge, which is as follows:

"The lobbyists not only bribe members of the Legislature to protect their interests, but they ELECT United States Senators and decide elections. They have elected them in Kentucky as well as in Illinois, Ohio, West Virginia and Colorado. Illinois is not the only State that has a Legislative jackpot."

Mr. James wants to know in the name of the dead and living Kentuckians who have been thus assailed, who this particular Senator was. He has a right to have this question answered. If he referred to Bradley (and there is proof that he had this Senator in mind,) then Judge O'Rear should be honest enough to say so. If he meant Brady, how could he arise in the Republican Convention, and, in defiance of decency, make this statement:

"It is a great privilege to be received in this manner by the representatives of 237,000 Republicans of Kentucky, and to be introduced to this audience by my friend, the Senator, who, in my judgment, is the greatest living Kentuckian. I am proud to say of him; furthermore, that despite the machinations of the lobby, here is one Senator from Kentucky on whose title there is no stain and on whose record there is no blot."

We will supplement Mr. James' inquiry with another. We want Judge O'Rear to answer if it is true that after making that speech, Senator Bradley called him to account for it, and told him that if he were not careful he would force him (Bradley) to ask for an investigation by the United States Senate that would cost him $25,000. Is it not a fact, that after being thus hauled over the coals by Bradley, that Judge O'Rear tried to square himself by publicly giving the Senator a certificate of character, and placing a halo about his brow?

What do the friends of temperance think of a candidate for Governor who with one hand smites the "Corrupt Lobby" and with the other calls down benedictions upon the man who gained a seat in the Senate by the support of this same "Corrupt Lobby," whose principal business for the last twenty-five years has been to prevent the extension of the County Unit.

Severus Charges Against Bruner.

In a statement to the press Chas. W. Bell, State Insurance Commissioner, declares that Dr. Ben L. Bruner, Secretary of State, should be impeached and muzzled. He also charges that Dr. Bruner has closed banks which ought not to have been closed.

The statement is "salty" and intimates that the Bank of Kentucky was closed because of personal feeling that exists between Mr. Bell and Dr. Bruner. The two have been at outs for over two years, since the Insurance Commissioner began an investigation of the Citizens' Life Insurance Company, of which Bruner was a director.

WHICH WOULD YOU CHOOSE?

If you saw a row of apples, everyone differing in size, ripeness and color, and all for sale at the same price, wouldn't you choose the best? Why not do the same thing when you buy fire insurance? The cost of insurance is substantially the same in all agencies, but what you get for your money varies as much as the apples in the row.

Choose then HOFFMAN'S INSURANCE AGENCY. For Nearly Three Quarters of a Century it has paid every loss, big and little. It's reputation is unexcelled. It is the best fire insurance apple of them all, and its policies cost no more than those in agencies of inferior quality. Why not use the same judgment in buying insurance that you would in such a trivial matter as buying fruit at a fruit stand?

Arbitration Among Neighbors.

In Warren county not long ago a farmer sold a horse to a neighbor farmer. A few days after the sale was made the horse died. The purchaser felt convinced that the animal was not sound at the time the dicker was made and that he had some rebate coming to him. The seller couldn't see the point, but being a reasonable sort of man agreed to submit the matter to arbitration. Each party to the contention selected his arbitrator and the two arbitrators selected a third man as umpire.

The arbitration court having been organized all parties met and an accommodating magistrate administered the oath to the "judges" and the witnesses. The participants in the horse trade stated the case from their respective angles. Each then introduced his witnesses, who threw such light as they could on the subject at issue. The case was then "submitted without argument." The arbitrators went into conference and in a short time announced their decision. They agreed that the purchaser of the horse was entitled to a refund of $25. The money was promptly paid over and "court" adjourned with everybody satisfied and no ill feelings. A large number of friends of both parties to the "action" attended the hearing and went away favorably impressed with arbitration among friends and neighbors. The Bowling Green Messenger in making some comments on the incident, is moved to remark:

"Of course, we must have law and lawyers. But in many cases disputes of this character can be settled by this method into court. It is confidently recommended to neighbors who have a misunderstanding."

The arbitration method as practiced in Warren county in the case in point is infinitely preferable to a lawsuit. Litigation is slow and expensive and in its final results is not likely to be entirely satisfactory to either plaintiff or defendant. It does not pay anybody to take a trivial neighborhood dispute into court. Where the amounts and the issues are not important it is vastly better to submit to the arbitrament of one's neighbors and friends than to seek an adjustment through the slow and uncertain processes of the courts.

WHEN ANNE BOLEYN DRIVES

Famous Apparition. Without Heads, on the Anniversary of the English Queen's Execution.

"Headless coaches" are fairly numerous. The most famous is the one that drives once a year, on the anniversary of Anne Boleyn's execution, up the avenue at Blickling, her Norfolk home, says the London Chronicle. The coachman and the four horses have not a head between them and Anne's own is not upon her shoulders, but she holds it in her lap as she sits in the coach all in white. At the hall door the whole apparition vanishes. Anne's father Sir Thomas, also rides in a coach drawn by headless horses once a year and his ride is much more exciting than his daughter's. He has to cross forty county bridges during the night and a company of yelling demons pursue the coach to keep the horses going. But how do the horses hear the noise if they have no ears?

HERE'S A FREE TRANSLATION

How a Familiar English Hymn Was Turned Into the South African Vernacular.

The difficulties of true translation are enormous, says a European letter to the New York Sun. This fact has been recently discovered again by some South American missionaries who have had some favorite English hymns translated into the vernacular for the benefit of their native converts.

Months after they had been exhorting their congregations to join heartily in the singing they found out that their translator had been particularly free. One of the finest examples of this was his version of the well-known hymn which opens with the line, "Lord dismiss us with thy blessing." This was rendered, "Lord, kick us out, softly, softly."

FLYER'S FIRST LESSON.

The aviator's first lesson is to learn to steer his airship in a perfectly straight line for a distance of a mile or over. This looks very easy until you discover that an ordinary aeroplane possesses the perversity common to all inanimate objects. It always wants to go the other way, instead of the straight way that you seek to direct. Your first dash across the field and back takes two minutes, if no mishap occurs. After two dashes of this description a discreet teacher will dismiss you for the day. You have had all that your nerves ought to be asked to stand in the best schools of France—a land famous for its aviators—no pupil, however apt, is permitted to have a longer daily lesson than five minutes at the outset of his course; and Monsieur Houper, who is a graduate of a leading French school of aviation, follows this plan.—Harriet Quimby, in Leslie's.

GRADUATES' REVISION.

"These young college A.B.'s think they know everything." The speaker was Hilary K. Adair, the western detective. Mr. Adair, seated in a San Francisco restaurant, resumed: "A Leland Stanford boy, just about to graduate, took me to task the other day about a bank robbery. He showed me where my reasoning had been wrong. 'But you'll do better,' he ended. 'Don't lose heart. One is never too old to learn.' 'Oh, you sweet girl and boy graduates have revised that proverb,' I sneered. 'It reads now: One is never too young to teach.'"

RAVAGES OF RACE SUICIDE.

H. G. Wells, on his visit to America, said that race suicide was too far advanced to be eradicated save by the endowment of motherhood.

"When I look at race suicide," Mr. Wells declared to a Boston reporter, "and when I listen to Mr. Roosevelt's hopeful railings against it, I think of my garden at Sandgate."

"Herb," said my wife one spring day, 'I wish you'd go weed out the flower bed.'

"I went immediately. But I soon returned."

"My dear," I said, 'it would be easier to flower out the weed bed.'"

WHITTIER BROUGHT TO DATE.

Maud Muller had just refused the judge.

"Marry a fellow who may lose his job any moment on the recall?" she sniffed. "Not much."

Herewith she smiled on a farmer instead.

A LETTER TO THE EDITOR.

DEAR EDITOR:

Me being one Of your profession, I have done A lot of writing in my time, In common prose and fancy rhyme. I've edited the "Bugle" here For almost twenty-seven year, And served my time, before I rose To editing and verse and prose. At a tting type, and long before I got advanced I swept the floor And did odd chores about the shop. I never would have gained the top, Advanced to this exalted level But for work that raised the devil.

I reckon your experience In climbing to the eminence Of editing a magazine Has been the same as mine has been, And so I know that you will be I ain't the kind to criticize A brother editor that tries To fill his space with ads and jokes. I ain't the kind of cuss that pokes And criticizes other men That makes their wages by the pen— Not me! I like your method fine. You've got a better scheme than mine. To me it's wonderful surprising How you peddle advertising To the folks in your home town. I couldn't make so much go down With my subscribers—they want news, Not ads for shaving soap and shoes. My customers all want to know Just when their friends and neighbors go A-visiting, and who is sick Or dead, and cures for Texas tick, And recipes for jam and pie, And who is born, and when you die— My obituary column Is dignified and sad solemn.

I write a poem now and then When indigestion gets my pen Too tangled up to fill the space I've got to fill to hold my place. I hope you'll answer me this question: How do you treat indigestion? You must suffer like tarnation From the stack of inspiration For the jokes and verse you write— Must be busy day and night. But I must close, hoping you Reply with just a line or two— We editors should get together.

Truly yours,

ZERE MARRIWETHER.

Thrift.

Thrift is a composite quality. It embraces within itself nearly all of the great virtues. It involves prudence, industry, forethought, self-denial.

It certainly has no relation to niggardliness or meanness.

Some men would let their grandmothers starve for the sake of a few dollars. Such action cannot be called thrifty. A virtue carried to excess becomes a vice and is no longer a virtue.

Thrift is the opposite of thriftlessness, prodigality, improvidence and waste.

Thrift means better homes and better food, more comfort and enjoyment, less waste and less anxiety.

It is possible that a large proportion of people have earnings so small that saving seems impossible. But this is no reason for their being unthrifty. On the contrary, it is reason for making the best and the most of the little they have for their health, comfort and true happiness.

A few dollars in a home, or a savings bank, or any safe investment, is as good seed as ever was sown.

Out of it grow confidence, quickened energies, firmer courage, more stalwart thought and hope, more orderly citizenship, education for the children and the independence and self respect that lift aimless, hopeless drudges up to the true manhood that aspires and achieves.

The world is using us about as well as we are using the world, and if we don't get what's coming to us it is simply because we don't rise up and meet it half-way.

How's This?

We offer One Hundred Dollars Reward for any case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure.

Potency of Improved Blood.

The improving effects of good blood in any kind of live stock are as sure as day. Young animals of superior character in the community mark the location of every sire of unusual merit. Wherever there are many well-bred sires and possibly some herds of equally excellent females, the number of high-class young stock is certain to be correspondingly large. So true is this that one can judge accurately of the progressiveness of any community or of any stockman by noting the character of stock in the fields.

Although the fact that blood will tell is clearly demonstrated on thousands of farms, the lesson is not quickly learned by the majority of farmers. Location, climate, feeds, accidents and many other influences are blamed by unsuccessful stockmen for trouble is more often with the ancestry. A few men waste good blood by giving it poor care, but for every one that does so there are a hundred who waste good care on stock of inferior breeding. There are many men who have the ability and skill to handle superior pure-bred stock successfully but who have not the courage to try. Generally they cannot resist the impulse to secure at least a sire of considerable excellence so that their grade stock reflects their longing for good blood.

The man who can care for grade stock so as to make it thrive at its best need not hesitate to acquire pure-bred stock. What good blood will do for others it will do for him. Four years ago, for example, a champion ram and some ewes of similar breed type and excellence were taken to a farm in a southern state. It was an experiment, but the grade sheep did well there, so there was faith that pedigreed sheep would thrive.

This year the lambs from this flock are the equal of high-class imported lambs. A few years ago an Illinois farmer with some experience with hogs made selections of the best blood his chosen breed afforded, with the result that now he is a formidable factor in any showing he enters. There are other swine breeders in Illinois and neighboring states whose experience and success are very similar. Many of the herds of cattle and studs of horses that now stand pre-eminent for the excellence of their young stock were founded in a small way on faith that good blood carefully mated and well cared for will tell on succeeding generations. A lifetime spent breeding animals from inferior stock will not gain one small fraction of the success that attends a few years of work built on the best foundation stock.

Only a few men stand at the top in animal breeding. All of them got there the same way—by faith that blood will tell.

HIS MOUNTAINS, HIS WYOMING

Story of a Little Boy and a Color Print at the Public Library.

He sat in the children's room of the public library yesterday poring over a huge book of Indian stories. He was twelve years old—the age, an observer fancied, when stories of blood and escape have the greatest appeal. But in the case of this particular boy the observer soon found that he was wrong, for in twenty minutes the boy had not turned a page. He sat staring down upon that one page—gloating over it, caressing it with his eyes.

The observer stepped closer—the boy was studying a color plate, the frontispiece of the book. The picture showed a barren plain. In the distance was the dim outline of snow-covered mountains. The picture was real—it seemed to breathe of sage brush and alkali.

The boy looked up. "Ain't it great?" he said. "The mountains is lots farther away than they look."

He looked down at the plate again, and then said without raising his eyes: "I was born on a place like that, out in Wyoming. The folks an' me come away las' year. When I get to be a man," he finished with a sudden determination in his voice, "I'm goin' back there—and have a ranch."

WREN GUARDS HIS HOME.

In Central America there is a wise little bird not any bigger than a canary, that makes a great effort to protect its nest from thieves, says the Century Path. It builds in a tree which has branches very close together and sets the nest on a firm place made by fastening the branches together with sticks and strings. Then it builds a covered entrance to the nest along this woven pavement and all along this, as well as on the nest, it places thorns, so that it is just as if the place were guarded by tiny barbed wire fences. There is even a door to the nest, which is closed when the baby birds are left alone, and more thorns are put up at that time as if to make certain that no one shall be able to steal the birdlings.

THE SELFISH GRADUATE.

Dr. Archibald Henderson, the brilliant author of the new life of Bernard Shaw, was talking about vegetarianism at a dinner in Hillsboro.

"Youth, with all its shining and splendid virtues, is selfish. Youth is especially selfish in its attitude toward father and mother. I once knew a youth whose father said to him on commencement day:

"Well, my dear boy, today you push forth into the world. You leave no debts behind in this quaint and delightful college town, I trust?"

"None, father," was the reply—"none but what, with diligence, perseverance and self-denial, you will be able to repay."

HIS FINISH.

"I've been warning Clara Skeggs about allowing her husband to play so much baseball. Now it's made her a widow." "What are you talking about?" "Nothing's the matter with Skeggs." "I tell you it's finished him. I saw myself in the paper where Bill Skeggs was playing a game and died on the base."—Baltimore American.

The Woman's Tonic

Mrs. Effie Graham, of Willard, Ky., says: "I was so weak I could hardly go. I suffered, nearly every month, for 3 years. When I began to take Cardui, my back hurt awfully. I only weighed 99 pounds. Not long after, I weighed 115. Now, I do all my work, and am in good health." Begin taking Cardui, today.

A Reversal of Form.

Everybody has heard of the sheep-killing dog, but it has remained for the State of Indiana to produce a dog-killing sheep.

In the county of Gibson in the State aforesaid a certain farmer purchased a sheep. Regardless of the well-known antipathy between dogs and sheep he turned the animal into the barnyard, where his dog was accustomed to run at large, keeping more or less vigilant watch over the pigs and cows, the cribs and haystacks, the chicken house and the farming implements. During the night the sheep attacked the dog and killed him. In the cold, gray dawn when the farmer hustled out to feed the stock he listened in vain for Towser's welcoming voice. He found out the reason when he found Towser in a fence corner, stiff as a poker, cold as a wedge and speechless forevermore. Nearby was the sheep, showing symptoms of ghoulish glee, malevolence in his eye and canine blood on his horns.

Gibson county pays for sheep killed by dogs, but there is no county in the world which pays for dogs killed by sheep. In fact it has been the general belief in bucolic regions that "they ain't no such thing" as a dog-killing sheep. But the Indiana farmer knows better—and knows it to his sorrow, for good dogs are scarce. He had heard that the county paid for sheep killed by dogs and he followed, by Granny, that it ought to pay for dogs killed by sheep. On the strength of his belief he submitted a claim for the value of one dog slaughtered with malice aforethought by a cruel and ferocious sheep. The cold-blooded custodian of the public exchequer promptly consigned the claim to the cuspidor and somewhat sarcastically inquired of the farmer as to what was eating him.

Wherefore the farmer went home declaring his intention of voting for a new administration, and exploring the official obstinacy that could not recognize any merit in a claim for the loss of a good coon dog.

It is a poor rule that does not work both ways, but the wisdom of Indiana statesmanship has never been equal to foreseeing a situation wherein an unfortunate dog should be murdered by a blood-thirsty sheep.

TIED RUN-DOWN PEOPLE

A North Carolina Man Suggests a Remedy

Greensboro, N. C.—"For a long time I was so run down and debilitated that I could hardly drag around. My appetite was poor and I could not sleep nights. I had tried different so-called tonics without benefit. I was advised to try your cod liver and iron tonic. Vinol, and I am so glad I did, for it gave me a hearty appetite, I soon commenced to sleep soundly, and I feel strong, well and more active than I have for years. Every run-down or debilitated person should just give Vinol a trial." K. Allsbrook. What Vinol did for Mr. Allsbrook it will do for every weak, run-down or debilitated person in this vicinity. To show our faith we will furnish the medicine free if it does not do as we claim. Come in and get a bottle on these terms.
